

GIGANTIC SMUGGLING COMBINE UNEARTHED.

Men Engaged in Spiriting Chinamen Across Mexican Border

Officials Say Hoey Received From $50 to $200 for Each Chinaman Brought Into the States—Several Arrests Have Been Made—The Affair Down in Arizona.

Washington, Aug. 24.—(Bulletin).—The treasury department officials have unearthed a gigantic smuggling combine at Nogales, Ariz. The town is on the border line between the United States and Mexico, and the ring leaders of the plot, a Chinaman named Frank How, made his home just across the line in the Mexican town of Nogales. The collector of the port, Wm. M. Hoey, together with his Chinese inspector, B. F. Jossy, the Chinaman mentioned, and another Celestial at Clifton, Ariz., are under arrest. The smugglers dealt in human goods, spiriting Chinamen across the border from Mexico. The officials here say that Hoey received from $50 to $200 for each Chinaman smuggled across. Practically all the customs and immigration officers employed by the Government at the place are implicated. Secretary Gage says that Hoey divided up with his subordinates. The officials here first learned of the smuggling about two months ago and a trap was laid for the perpetrators.

Mayor Grant's Fat Fees Receiver of a Big Concern.

New York, Aug. 24.—Former Mayor Grant has been appointed receiver of the Cobre Grand Copper company, whose property exceeds in value $25,000,000. The company is perfectly solvent but disputes among stockholders has sent it to the hands of a receiver. It is estimated that Grant's fee for taking charge of the company's affairs for a brief time will be something like $500,000. Grant has become known among lawyers and politicians as the "man of fat fees." As receiver of the Third avenue railroad requiring less than three months' work, Grant received $200,000. He received $24,000 as receiver of the St. Nicholas Bank, while his fees as sheriff for three years aggregated about $300,000.

PRIZE BABY

Father of Child Made Speech in Which He Told Some Very Remarkable Facts.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Aug. 24.—Perry Carter is the proud father of the baby that took first prize at the fair ground for being the handsomest baby. After the awarding of the prize Carter made a speech. He said he was 72 years old and was living with his fourth wife, two of the others having been divorced and one being dead. He said he was not counting the three wives that had run away from him. He was the father of 14 children and had never harmed a hair of any of his wives.

Strikers Parade.

San Francisco, Aug. 24.—The water front strikers, 15,000 strong, will parade the down-town streets this afternoon. There is no early prospect of an early settlement, and every day adds to the idle fleet, though the ship owners claim to be working more men daily. The labor council has protested to President Wheeler of Stanford University against the course of the university students in taking the places of the strikers.

Six Ships Ashore.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 24.—Captain Evans of the Neptune line steamer Runo, now in port from Rotterdam reports that on the voyage here he witnessed the remarkable sight of six steamships ashore within sight of one another near Cape Race, on the Newfoundland coast. The Runo went within five miles of the cape and as the weather was clear Captain Evans had a good view of the ships. They were within an eleven mile stretch of the beach and within range of the Cape Race lighthouse.

MAN'S WIFE

Kidnaped by a Fellow Without Legs. Now Stickney's Wife Skips With Another Man.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 24.—A man without legs kidnaped another man's wife and has left for Wheeling, W. Va. July 14, Owen Stickney of Corfu, who has both legs off above the knees, left his wife, Minnie, and eloped with the sixteen year old wife of B. H. Green of Akron, N. Y. A New York detective traced the man and woman to Youngstown, O. where all trace was lost. Stickney has written his mother as follows: "I told you if I had six hours start they could not catch us and a steam engine can't take Eva from me. Write us at Wheeling, W. Va." To add to the disgraceful affair Mr. Stickney's wife has, since her husband's elopement run away with Irvin Hay, and they are located at Bradford, Pennsylvania.

Chardon, Ohio, Aug. 24.—A telephone company started to extend its line to Willoughby, but when workmen reached the farm of Austin Smith, an aged and eccentric farmer he notified them that as long as he lived telephone posts would never be laid past his farm. For seven nights Smith filled up the post holes, and then the company yielded. Smith claimed that the singing of the telephone wires would make his cattle restless.

NO WATER

For Several Hours in Chicago Today and No Little Inconvenience Was Caused.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Occupants of down-town office buildings and stores were inconvenienced and millions of dollars worth of property was in jeopardy for several hours today by the breaking of a water main. Almost the entire district bounded by the elevated loop, the very heart of the city, was without water supply. Tenants of offices in the fifteen and twenty story buildings were forced to climb stairs, basement restaurants and banks and safety vaults, depending on light dynamos operated by water, were compelled to use candles. Guests of hotels had to send bell boys with buckets outside the affected district to get drinking water.

PRESS-POST AFFAIR NOT YET SETTLED.

Columbus, Aug. 24.—Harry L. Ogden had received no information from President Lynch of the Typographical union and until he does, matters will remain as they are at the Press-Post unless Clarence M. Jones takes further action.

Two machine operators and three advertising men were at work in the composing room today, but as on previous days they decline to handle any matter except editorials and advertisements.

President Lynch is in New Orleans and Mr. Ogden states that he expects to hear from him some time during the day, but if he does not will remain in Columbus until the trouble is settled one way or the other.

ARKIN

TAKEN TO CHICAGO ON SUNDAY MORNING.

Doctors Examined Arkin at City Prison Saturday Afternoon and a Decision is Reached.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon Dr. Henry Day, representing the infirmary directors, and Dr. J. N. Stone, representing the township trustees, examined Harry Arkin, the young man who has been in prison here since the Columbus authorities sent him back to Newark. The doctors were of the opinion that Arkin is suffering from a nervous disease and should be sent to his home in Chicago. There was talk of sending him to the county infirmary, but it was thought it would be cheaper for the county and better for the patient to take him to Chicago.

Arrangements were therefore made for Trustee E. D. Everett and Infirmary Director James Redman to take Arkin to Chicago on B. & O. No. 7 at 10:35 Sunday morning.

UNCHANGED

Is Steel Strike—Labor Leaders Meet But No Definite Action—Summary of the Situation.

Pittsburg, Aug. 24.—The local strike situation is reported unchanged today at all the strike points except at the Star Tin Plate plant where seven additional men are working.

This morning it was stated that President Shaffer will submit to any fair proposition but the overtures must come from the Steel trust. The basis of settlement proposed is the old basis, a scale signing for mills that were union last year and a compromise on the other mills, the Amalgamated to be given mills only where workers have voluntarily shown a desire to become union. A possible settlement may finally be made on this basis.

BRIEF IN THE LENTZ CONTEST

Filed by Attorneys in the Celebrated Election Case—Tompkins Offered no Testimony.

Columbus, O., Aug. 24.—John J. Lentz's attorneys in his contested election case against Congressman-elect Emmet Tompkins today sent their brief to the committee of congress on elections. Tompkins' decision to offer no testimony to controvert Lentz's evidence is argued to be a confession to the charge of securing his election by fraud and bribery. The brief says: "We hold that Mr. Tompkins holds nothing but a vilely tainted title, such as no self-respecting gentleman would be willing to assert in the presence of decent men; a title so vicious and rotten as to be pre-eminent the most corrupt title ever asserted by any corrupt claimant to a seat in congress in the history of the American republic." Ex-Supreme Judge Selwin N. Owen, ex-Attorney General Monnett and Franklin Rubrecht sign the brief as attorneys.

FORAKER TO BE STAR PERFORMER

Has No Confidence in Either Nash, Hanna Or Dick

Therefore the Senator Proposes Doing Principal Campaign Speech Making for the Republicans—Bryan's Genuine Friendship for Col. Kilbourne—Toledo Jones Knocks Props from Republican Hopes.

Columbus, Aug. 24.—The Republican state executive committee met in this city Tuesday afternoon, perfected the minor details of the campaign organization and adopting a resolution providing for the formal opening of the campaign at Delaware, Saturday, September 21st. There was a notable absence of party leaders at the meeting. Neither Senator Hanna nor Senator Foraker was present. The committee simply met, looked wise and proceeded to ratify all the arrangements that had been previously agreed upon between Foraker and Dick, with the permission of Boss Hanna. It is expected that the burden of the speaking campaign will devolve upon Foraker. The committee will import a number of well known Republican spellbinders from other states, but Foraker will be the star performer and will fill more engagements in all parts of the state while the brief campaign is in progress than he ever filled in his life during an equal period. The senior Senator is not only willing but anxious to assume this responsibility. His opinion of Nash's oratory rates it as of a kind that is better never uttered, and he desires to keep the governor as much as possible in the background, realizing that he weakens himself and the party whenever he speaks in public. This is one of the principal reasons why Foraker wants to do all the talking. His predicament secretly amuses Hanna and Dick, who have about as much genuine interest in Foraker's campaign as a burglar has in a camp meeting. Foraker's astute and retiring friend, Charles L. Kurtz, has been with him in Cincinnati during the present week laying the foundation for the senator's personal bureau, which will operate quite distinctly from the state committee, in which neither Foraker nor Kurtz have any confidence. Kurtz's visit and actual organization of the campaign in Foraker's behalf proves that the stories recently published to the effect that he had retired from the political arena and proposed to let Dick have all the responsibility of the legislative canvass were all moonshine. Kurtz will not appear on the surface of things, but if the legislature is Republican, he will have more to do with that result than the anti-Foraker gang that dominates the state committee.

The Democratic State executive committee will take several days more in which to complete its organization. Chairman Daugherty concluded to have the working force already selected in a position to go ahead with the campaign before calling the full committee together. For this reason the call has not been issued and probably will not be before the middle of next week. Chairman Daugherty will not be permanently in the city until after this meeting. Meanwhile affairs at headquarters remain in charge of Secretary Gilliam. The correspondence is already heavy requiring the constant Omaha, Neb., Aug. 24.—Charles Poor, whose wife, a Mrs. Dr. Poor of Chicago, created a scene in Corning, New York, as telegraphed the Advocate yesterday, was mysteriously murdered on May 17, 1890. According to Mrs. Poor's story—and she was the only living person, except the one who fired the shot, who knew anything about how it happened—Poor thought he heard some one on the porch trying the window. He grabbed his revolver, opened the window, and looked out, but a shot was fired and Poor fell dead. Mrs. Poor has been broken in health ever since the tragedy and at times her mind has been affected. She has made her home in Chicago for several years.

AT THE EXPENSE OF THE AMERICAN CONSUMER.

American steel manufacturers are offering wire rods delivered in Manchester for $29.30 a ton. For the same thing the price to customers in this country is $39 a ton. That is to say, the American protective tariff, preventing free competition, enables the American manufacturer to charge $9 to Americans for what he sells to Englishmen for $29.30, later freight, the goods across the Atlantic. Either the American producer makes a profit by selling his wire rods to the Englishman at $29.30 a ton or he does not. If he does not make a profit on the foreign business the unfortunat American customer is forced to pay a price so excessive that the missionary manufacturer can let Englishmen have them at less than cost, which is nice for the foreigner.

WILL THE CZAR INTERVENE?

Press dispatches hint that the czar's visit to France is not to be one entirely of pleasure, and that while in that country he will broach the subject of intervention to President Loubet. It is also hinted that he will obtain a direct statement from President Kruger as to the Boer's position. Of all the powers of Europe Russia is pre-eminently fitted to be the one to take such a step and the czar about all others is logically the person from which the suggestion should come. A handful of patriots taking a stand and holding at bay a world power, while their ranks are daily growing thinner and with the cheerful outlook of unconditional surrender or extermination looking them in the face, is enough to provoke the compassion of even the most hard hearted, and Nicholas of Russia is not this.

The plea that the tariff should be removed from trust made articles is met by the reply that to do so "would disturb business." Undoubtedly it would disturb the trust business—and why shouldn't that business be disturbed?

Of reports of battles and rumors of war involving Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador and possibly other South American republics there is no end, and it is difficult to get to an understanding of the situation. Government agents assert all is peaceful, others say the trouble is transitory and meaningless, and the liberal party's friends declare their generals have won handsily at every engagement, and soon will be in possession of the capitals. Certain it is that disturbance exists. The presence of the United States warships may have some effect.

It was Sampson who sent all manner of contradictory orders to Schley, who suppressed one important dispatch from his reports, who then charged Schley with "reprehensible conduct," and who, finally, assumed all the glory for the victory over the Spanish fleet at Santiago. One of the questions which Schley's counsel will undoubtedly desire to ask him is: "Why were not the alleged shortcomings in Schley's conduct reported at the time of their occurrence instead of not being discovered until the 10th of July, a week after the battle, when Sampson learned from the newspapers that the whole American people were shouting Schley's praise?"

All indications point to a desperate move in favor of Federal ship subsidies when the next Congress shall have assembled for its long session. There is an increased American ownership of steam vessels, present and prospective, interested in the projected ruin upon the treasury, and there is also a well settled belief that if subsidies shall fail then it will fail for good.

"Mr. Kilbourne, the nominee for governor, is an excellent man, a life-long Democrat and an active supporter of the national ticket in 1896 and 1900. He deserves and should receive the vote of every Democrat in Ohio."

Bitter Fight on Reciprocity.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)
Russia puts up custom-house bars at its ports against American machinery because we have put up a special bar against Russian sugar. Our manufacturers of machinery clamor for the reciprocal removal of the American bars against Russian sugar and the Russian bars against American machinery, but the American beet sugar and cane sugar interests join hands in fighting any reduction. The same conditions exist all along the line and the fight over reciprocity treaties is likely to be as bitter as if it were over a revision of the tariff.

A Depressing Announcement.

(Detroit Free Press.)
It is rather distressing to have General MacArthur return from the Philippines and tell us that as a result of the war "the people of many districts have relapsed into barbarism." Somehow we had conceived the idea that all the barbarism which the islands could contain existed there previous to the ratification of the treaty of Paris, and that every time the population was reduced by a well-handled Krag-Jorgensen the blessings of civilization spread perceptibly. If General MacArthur is right this notion is erroneous, and yet we are certain that it was based upon the most eminent administration authority.

Behind Our Fan.

Hon. Wm. Bell, Jr., recently received a letter from Mr. George W. Johns, a prominent resident of Newark, a veteran of the civil war, and well known in leading circles at Washington city for his literary attainments. Mr. Bell permits the Advocate to extract from the letter what Mr. Johns has to say in regard to the recent improvements in this paper. Mr. Johns writes from the National Military Home in Kansas where he is now located. The extract from his letter follows:

National Military Home, Kansas, August 1, 1901.

"My Dear Bell:
"Accept best thanks for the Newark Daily Advocate of the 24th ult. It was the glorified ghost of things lost to sight but to memory dear. It was the sign of rare progress and prosperity, and evidence that reduced the sign to a certainty. Twenty-one thousand industrious citizens can afford to support a daily paper to the advantage of the city and the profit of the press. If old Benjamin Briggs could burst his cerements and creep out from behind his 'hic jacet,' how surprised he would be at his crude 16 by 21 of 1820 had accomplished its present evolution. Morgan himself might be brought to the belief that miracles were but materialism."

quarters of the Amalgamated Association was the leading feature of the strike Friday. The officials of the organization all seemed pleased with the way things were moving, and one of them said somewhat mysteriously: "In another six days you will see a decided change in the strike that will tell with greater effect upon the trust and aid in hurrying the final outcome of this struggle." Just what this change is to be was not said, but it was inferred strongly that the coming event hinged upon the conference that was taking place.

Two sessions were held by the conferees behind closed doors. It was explained that the leaders had been called together for the purpose of having the situation thoroughly explained to them and to have some action taken looking to the aid of the strikers morally and financially by all of the organizations represented. There were present at the conference besides the Amalgamated officials John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America; J. W. Jenks, member of the industrial commission; Ralph M. Easley, secretary of the National Civic Federation, and Henry M. White, general secretary of the United Garment Workers. The conference ended about 9 p. m. and the conferees left for their homes.

President Shaffer said in reference to the meeting that it was not preconcerted, but "just happened." President Mitchell, he said, had telephoned him that he would like to see him on his way home from the eastern coal fields, and soon after his arrival the other men made their appearance. During the meeting, however, the whole strike situation was discussed. There was nothing of importance accomplished. Mr. Shaffer said no arrangement was made to submit a new peace proposition to the corporation or a further proposal for arbitration, adding that he did not know what individual action the conferees might take in the future. No mention was made of the miners or other trades taking sympathetic action.

It is believed as a result of the meeting that another effort will be made to induce the United States Steel corporation to tender another conference.

Strike Summarized.

Following is a summary of the present status of the strike:
Pittsburg—Star mill: Two mills running; strikers say five more men left the plant and joined their ranks, but management positively denies this statement. Palmetto mill: Four mills running; fires lighted in bar mill furnaces, but failed to start as expected. Pennsylvania tube works: Carnegie mills running full.
McKeesport—Demmler plant idle and no attempt will be made to start it before next week. Everything else closed down.
Ironclad—Mill running with same force as before, making two turns and assurance from the manager that more men will be added.
Wellsville—Situation unchanged; 12 mills running.
Lisbon—Fires started in tin plate plant. Manager George Evans says everything in readiness for start soon with plenty of men. Strikers voted to remain out and the mill is strongly picketed.

Whittling—Everything tied up and no apparent indication of an attempt to start any of the mills.
Rollabe—The National Steel company's idle plant will, it is said, be started early next week by a full force of men.
No late advices have been received by the Amalgamated officials from either Bayview or Joliet, and the situation at those points is considered by them to be unchanged.

The postponement of the attempt to start the Demmler plant of the American Tin Plate company until next week, the officials of the company say, was for the purpose of putting the plant in perfect order before the men started to work. They say plenty of men will be on hand when the time comes to operate the plant.

The strikers claim that very little actual work has been done by the combine in any of its plants since the strike began, and that what production has been turned out has been of an inferior character. Notwithstanding this the steel officials declare them selves well pleased with the condition of affairs and say all the mills started are working satisfactorily and turning out good product.

An interesting rumor reported from New York was that circular letters had been sent to all of the presidents of labor unions by the Amalgamated Association asking what each would do to assist the steel workers in their strike. One of the replies which it is said was received was from P. M. Arthur, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. It is stated that his reply President Arthur said his organization held contracts with the railroads; that they also were bound to move the United States mail, but that the organization could make no distinction between the steel corporation and individual shippers.

FORAKER TO BE STAR REFORMER

attention of several clerks and indicating that the committee will be kept busy with larger profits than it now has, when the campaign actively opens. For the formal opening of the speaking campaign strong pressure is being brought to bear in favor of Franklin Warren county, the feeling being that the south-western part of the state is logically pointed to by present conditions as the most desirable place for the opening. Warren county is contiguous to Hamilton, Butler and Montgomery counties, where it is felt that important Democratic work may be done in this campaign. The state committee has the utmost faith in Democratic prospects in other sections, and for this reason Franklin is likely to be chosen.

Among the humors of the campaign the "open letter" addressed to William J. Bryan and written by one Bernard Hubert, alleged secretary of the alleged Progressive Democratic state executive committee, promises to take first prize. Mr. Hubert thanks Mr. Bryan for having committed a high crime by announcing his support of Colonel Kilbourne and the entire Democratic ticket in Ohio, and by advising other Democrats to do likewise. Mr. Hubert solemnly advises Mr. Bryan that the Ohio Democracy is a "slum," that Colonel Kilbourne is guilty of "cowardly evasion" and abhors to "gild" the party, the ticket and all their joint belongings in this state.

This must be very amusing, to Mr. Bryan, who is not in the habit of associating with cowards and has been a consistent friend of Colonel Kilbourne since his nomination for the presidency in 1896. Since Mr. Bryan knows that Colonel Kilbourne contributed to his campaign in that year and in 1900 and that he furthermore actively favored his re-nomination through all the intervening four years, he must be surprised to learn from Mr. Hubert, alleged secretary of the alleged committee aforesaid, that Kilbourne did not support him. Many times Mr. Bryan has been Colonel Kilbourne's guest at the latter's residence in this city, and in the intervals between their meetings they have been in friendly correspondence. Each has sought and received the other's advice touching political matters and in every way their relations have been cordial. Colonel Kilbourne for five years has not only supported Mr. Bryan as the national leader of the Democratic party, but—what is even more important—he has been himself prominently identified with the principles represented by Bryan in his two campaigns, some of which Colonel Kilbourne espoused long before the late Democratic presidential candidate became a leader in national politics.

These facts are well known to Mr. Bryan and if he ever received the letter which Mr. Hubert claims to have written him, and which he published in Republican organs before the person to whom it was addressed had time to receive it, he must have wondered where its author got his information about Ohio Democrats.

Mr. Hubert is "scorn" things at night," and the objects that must haunt his dreams are placed where they will scare him by Mark Hanna and checkbook Dick. When Mr. Hubert "comes to," he will realize that it was all a dream.

Mayor Jones of Toledo has knocked the props from under Republican hopes by announcing his support of the Democratic candidate for governor. The Golden Rule mayor is ready to take the jump for Kilbourne and will use all his influence for his election. This course was expected of him at Democratic headquarters. It was well known that Mayor Jones regarded as the first essential of political reform in Ohio the destruction of the corrupt Hanna machine that now dominates the state like a slave-driver lordling it over his marionettes. No other course was open to an independent man like Mayor Jones. He has plenty of company in his section, however, for it is notorious that Lucas county and the whole Northwest is anxious to attest its repudiation of Hannaism by giving Kilbourne a rousing majority.

Colonel Kilbourne is at Hot Springs, Arkansas, resting and preparing for the campaign and will not return to Columbus until about the first of September. He expects to visit every county in the state in his canvass and is in excellent physical condition to meet the exacting duties before him.

OFFICERS ARRIVE TO INSPECT BATTERY CAMP.

Advance Detail of Ninth Battalion Arrives—Reception Tonight—Target Practice Next Week.

Everything is going smoothly at Camp McConnell, and the camp promises to be one of the most successful in the history of a Battery A.

The morning was spent in drill, while the afternoon was devoted to target practice.

At two o'clock Gen. W. V. McKim of the First Brigade, Col. Moulton Houk and Col. C. C. Ames of Gen. C. W. F. Dick's staff, arrived at the grounds, and were greeted with the general's salute.

The officers arrived on the B. & O. at 12:20 o'clock and took dinner at the Bolton House, after which they went to the grounds with Major Surgeon Taylor.

There is no sickness in camp.

Lieut. Colonels Henry M. Moore, Harry Freese, I. F. Hanselman, T. M. Ritsell, of General Dick's staff, are ordered to report in camp Monday next.

General McMane came direct from Camp Spears at Toledo, and is the ranking officer present in camp. He said the Fourth regiment had a nice camp, but were crowded some at Bay View. He is of the opinion that there are no grounds in the state equal to the Newark grounds.

He said that Governor Nash would be here Monday and inspect the battery.

The Spanish American War Veterans of Newark will entertain members of the battery and the officers with a banquet at the memorial Hall tonight.

Ninth Battalion Advance Guard.

The next body of troops to go into camp at the state camp grounds will be the Ninth Battalion Infantry. This battalion will go into camp next Tuesday, remaining for one week. Capt. John R. Rudd of Springfield, together with a detail of 9 men from Co. B, of Columbus, arrived here this morning, and are now busily engaged in getting everything in readiness for the camp. The detail is composed of Sergeant Henry Lane, Harry Wilson, J. W. Alvis, Ed Barnett, Henry Lane, Albert Lewis, the cook, and Charles Hayes.

The battalion is composed of four companies, the field and staff and the fine band from Cleveland. The companies are officered as follows:

Co. A, Springfield, Captain Wm. F. Elliott; First Lieut. Charles E. Frye; Second Lieut. Alvin M. Cahalan.

Co. B, Columbus, Capt. Howard C. Gilbert; First Lieut. Geo. A. Waugh; Second Lieut. Lester Scott.

Co. C, Xenia, Capt. Harry H. Robinson; First Lieut. Jas. Braselton, Second Lieut. Wm. Lindsay.

Co. D, Cleveland, Capt. Alfred A. Moore; First Lieut. Walrath L. Drayton; Second Lieut. Harry E. Hall.

The Ninth Battalion saw service in the Spanish war and was in the same camp with Company G of this city, at Camp Alger, Va. Captain Rudd says he expects to have everything ready to receive the battalion upon its arrival Tuesday at one p. m. on the Pan Handle. The celebrated Ninth Battalion band, of Cleveland O., will give a band concert every evening after the parade.

The adjutant general has also issued orders for the Ninth Battalion quartermaster to furnish quarters and subsistence to the state rifle team which will also shoot at the state range on Tuesday for the representative member of the state team to go to Sea Girt, N. J., to shoot for the national trophy.

MR. MOSSBROOK'S STATEMENT.

Mr. G. W. Mossbrook said to the Advocate today that the article that appeared in last night's issue might lead to the opinion that little Roy Moore, who was drowned in the cistern on his premises, had been left in charge of Mrs. Mossbrooke. It was not intended to convey such an impression, as the little fellow was in the habit of going to the neighbors' houses, and nothing was thought of his presence at the Mossbrook home.

DR. BASHFORD

PRESIDENT OF OHIO WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY,

Has Been Chosen President of Northwestern University and He Will Probably Accept.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—James Whitford Bashford, president of Ohio Wesleyan university, has been chosen president of Northwestern university and will be offered the position when he arrives at Chicago from California. Intimate friends of Dr. Bashford say he will undoubtedly accept the offer. In making the choice the committee of seven has closed one of the hardest campaigns ever fought in university affairs. The selection of Dr. Bashford, it is believed, will close the breach which has existed between the various factions since June, 1900, when Dr. Henry Rodgers resigned. The resignation of Dr. Rodgers, who had filled the position 10 years, is said to have been due to opposition to him from a faction among the trustees.

Cuba's Cigar Outlook.
Havana, Aug. 24.—Gustav Boeck, in the course of a report to the cigar manufacturers' union regarding the outlook of the cigar and tobacco industry, expresses the opinion that there is no danger to be apprehended from American competition so far as Cuban cigars are concerned. He takes the ground that even if Cuba sent all her cigars to the United States—and she produced 200,000,000 last year—this could not seriously affect the American producers and manufacturers, who last year sold 900,000,000 cigars in the United States. Even if Cuba were to more than double her present output and to send all to the United States, this would not change the situation.

Will Not Impeach Robbins.
Austin, Tex., Aug. 24.—The house refused to adopt a resolution to impeach State Treasurer Robbins for having a large amount of the state's money on deposit in the First National bank of Austin when it failed recently. The governor sent a message indicating that the First National bank was in a fair way to be reopened and asking for legislation to enable the state to take advantage of the bank's resuming, so as to get hold of all its money within 180 days. The resolution suggested was adopted.

Had Money in Bank.
Jackson, Miss., Aug. 24.—State Treasurer Stowers gave out a statement with regard to the alleged shortage of over $100,000 in his account when Governor Longino counted the cash in the treasury Aug. 15. He says the money was deposited with state banks on good collateral by his cashier and on his authority.

NELLIE LEWIS FAINTED

When She Learned of Millionaire Sam Strong's Death.

Newark Girl Had Loved Him Since She Was a Child—She Was Given $50,000 in Suit—Killing of Strong Leads to War on Gamblers.

A telegram to the Advocate Thursday afternoon from Cripple Creek, Colo., told of the tragic death of millionaire Sam Strong during a row in Crumley's saloon. The death of Strong was of local interest because of his association with a former Newark girl, Nellie Lewis, who secured judgment some time ago against Strong for $50,000 in a breach of promise suit.

Erwin C. Lewis, 61 years of age, was for over 50 years a resident of Licking county. He lived for 40 years or up to 1893 about two and one-half miles southwest of Newark, near the Dorsey place, but a few years ago he abandoned farming and moved with his family to Colorado and is now said to be engaged in mining. It is Mr. Lewis' pretty daughter Nellie, who recovered judgment for $50,000 against Strong in April 1900. The jury was out for 18 hours. Miss Lewis is remembered by Newark friends as a beautiful girl of the blonde type. A brother of Miss Lewis now lives in Newark. Another brother, Frank, a B. & O. brakeman, was killed on the Shawnee division of the B. & O. railroad about eight years ago. She has still another brother, Joseph, now living in the far west and she also has five sisters, Maude, Mattie, Blanche, Eunice and Mabel who are living in California and Colorado.

The following from Cripple Creek refers to the Lewis-Strong suit:

When Miss Nellie Lewis, 22, heard of the killing of Sam Strong, the millionaire mine owner by Gambler Grant Crumley, she fainted. It was Nellie Lewis who received $50,000 from Strong in a breach of promise suit. Strong had boarded at her home before he became rich. He ruined her when she was 14 years old, under a promise of marriage, and when he made his money he married Miss Regina Neville, of Altman. Then Miss Lewis entered suit. Nine of the jurors wanted to give her $200,000 and three made it $50,000; she was finally given that verdict. Miss Lewis has always loved Strong and she was the most affected of all who knew him when she heard of his tragic death.

Crumley, who killed Strong, is a noted "bad man." He has been in many scrapes, and is believed to have been concerned in the kidnaping and tarring and feathering of Gen. Tarsney at Colorado Springs during the Cripple Creek strike a few years ago when Tarsney was attorney for the strikers. Crumley has made money in the mines, and is credited with being worth $2,000,000.

Mayor F. J. Crane, of Cripple Creek, has issued a proclamation commanding the police to search persons suspected of carrying concealed weapons. He proposes a general disarming of citizens of the Rocky Mountain gold camp. He recommends that the Police Magistrate levy heavy fines on any person caught with a pistol or a knife. The mayor also orders the closing of all gambling houses and is now strictly enforcing it.

The proclamation is addressed to "Gamblers, persons carrying concealed weapons and saloon keepers who permit the above described persons to enter any saloon in Cripple Creek," and explains his order is given "because of the evil practices among certain people in this city, particularly gamblers, of carrying concealed weapons, by reason whereof the lives of innocent people, women and children are constantly in danger and because I believe that in a community so well governed as Cripple Creek, where warrants are worth 100 cents on the dollar, any person who carries a gun or other dangerous weapons concealed on his person is either a coward, a bully or an outlaw."

This order, he explains is the result of the murder of Samuel Strong by Grant Crumley, owner of the Newport saloon. Thursday morning Strong was drunk and drew a pistol in defense of his father-in-law, whom Crumley threatened to beat. Crumley blew the top of Strong's head off with a shot-gun. The inquest on Strong's body was begun Friday behind closed doors, the public and reporters being excluded. Mrs. Regia M. Strong was Friday made administratrix of her late husband's estate, valued at $2,000,000. The widow and two children by Sam Strong's divorced wife, are the heirs.

At 10 o'clock Friday night the coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder without premeditation against Grant Crumley. The evidence was suppressed. Crumley is without bail.

HAND HURT—An employee of the Jewett Car Works named Moul, met with a painful accident yesterday. He was engaged at work when he slipped, and fell, running a spike through one of his hands. Dr. Bowers attended the injured man.

ASTONISHED THE EDITOR.

Editor S. A. Brown of Bennettville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and, after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at Hall's drug store.

Out of Danger.

Miss Nellie Cox who was badly hurt by falling off a street car Thursday night, is much better today, and is thought to be out of danger.

Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress? THE WALLACE CIRCUS HORSES.

The Indiana Farmer, a leading agricultural journal, thinks the Wallace circus is a horse show in itself. The Farmer said:

"Time, intelligence, patience and perseverance are necessary in collecting together 200 head of horses such as may be seen and are in daily use of the Great Wallace Show. When Mr. Wallace conceived the idea of entering the circus business, he also determined to purchase the best horses for draft purposes, as well as for use in ring and races, and with this end in view he chose for his type of horse for draft the Percheron, the ideal draft horse, and for his races the Kentucky thoroughbred, and with this end in view he has collected together over 200 head.

"He selected for his band chariot-handsome jet black, and for his dens and other wagons dapple grays; these, intermingled with his fine thoroughbreds, make one of the most imposing parades ever witnessed. Each year new stock is added, but each time the same breed is selected, until today Mr. Wallace stands without peer as a judge of horses. The making up of the different teams is also an object lesson to the eye, uniformity in size and color always predominating. Well may it be truthfully advertised, 'The finest horses of any show in the world.' To see the Wallace horses reminds one of being present at the great 'Horse Fair,' the painting of which made the late Rose Bonheur famous. His display of horses is worth anyone's time to witness, and should be seen by every farmer in the land, as he would soon see the advantages of breeding horses uniform in size and color. Mr. Wallace's circus is like his horses, the best and finest the world ever saw."

The Great Wallace Show will exhibit one day only in Newark on Monday, September 9th.

HOSPITAL

IS IN NEED OF YOUR HELP, AND AT ONCE.

None But Charity Patients Now at the Institution—Miss Miller Will Solicit Funds.

When the Newark City Hospital was opened, five or six hundred citizens of Newark signified their interest by promising to pay an annual fee of one dollar. Others were willing to give five dollars, still others ten dollars, and a few gave much larger sums. Some of these friends have stood by us nobly. But the great majority have not responded from year to year, not realizing perhaps, the great need of a hospital and the still greater need of solid cash to maintain it. Now, to all these former friends we solicit a renewal of your interest, and to hundreds of new friends we entreat your kind consideration and substantial aid. During the coming week Miss Mary Miller who has been duly appointed and authorized to collect funds for the hospital, will call upon you. Please receive her kindly and your gifts, though small, will be appreciated. All the patients in the hospital at present are charity cases. Help us, friends, in this beautiful and blessed work of caring for suffering humanity. By order of

EXECUTIVE BOARD.

"That man," said the asylum attendant, "went insane over golf." "This seems like discrimination," remarked the visitor. "Why should he alone be locked up when so many others are permitted to be at large?"

THE POLICE COURT.

Charley Kiger was arrested for drunkenness Friday afternoon by Officer Rinehart.

Officers Jacobs and Carroll arrested Charles Kiger for drunkenness.

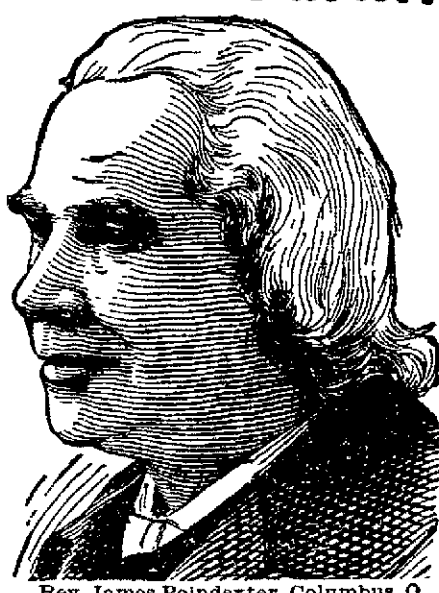

Mickey Ray was arrested by Marshal Vogelmeier for being drunk.

Harry Arkin spent the night at the city prison, and was still there this morning.

House Numbers.

The Rugg Sign Emporium wishes to announce that, not yet, has anyone got a corner on the numbering of houses in the city. Buy your numbers where you wish and you will have no trouble about keeping them up. The city council does not compel you to buy your numbers of any one person. We have aluminum numbers at 10 cents, same as others are asking 15 cents and 25 cents. We will have four barrels of these numbers in Tuesday. If you wish to avoid the rush send in your order by mail. W. W. RUGG.

An Old Pastor.

Rev. James Poindexter, Columbus, O.

No man in the capital city of the State of Ohio is better known than the Rev. James Poindexter. For many years he has been the successful pastor of the Second Baptist Church of that city. Every day his venerable figure and kindly face may be seen on the streets of the city where he has labored for so many years. What a history of benevolence and self-sacrifice might be written by simply giving the details of the every-day life of this faithful pastor and eloquent preacher.

But old age comes to the best of men. The rheumatics peculiar to advanced age had already begun its insidious ravages when it became necessary to find a remedy, if possible, that his days of usefulness might not be shortened.

An efficient nerve tonic that would stimulate the circulation, improve the digestion, and increase the tone and vigor of his whole system, was needed. The only remedy capable of meeting all these indications was found to be Peruna. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, he states:

"My attention was called some time ago to your medicine for rheumatic troubles by Mr. Cook, an old reliable druggist of this city, and take pleasure in saying that I have tried them and found them good. It is my opinion that the remedy, Peruna, is justly entitled to the fame which it has throughout the United States."

It is significant that in homes of wealth where the very best is demanded, Ivory Soap is used in the nursery. At the same time, in hundreds of families where economy decides the choice, Ivory Soap is selected. Thus its purity attracts the rich; its economy attracts the poor. High quality and low cost: is there any better combination?

IN THE LODGE ROOM.

ODD FELLOWS.

To be eligible to visit the sessions of the Sovereign Grand Lodge a brother must be a Past Grand, a Royal Purple Degree member of the Encampment and a member of a Rebekah lodge. The visitor must be in good standing in the Subordinate lodge, Subordinate Encampment and Rebekah lodge.

The 6th annual picnic of the several lodges in Delaware, Marion and Union counties will be held at Richwood, Union county on Thursday, August 29th. The picnics given by this association have always been popular, and this one promises to be a grand success. The officers of the Association will leave no stone unturned that will add to the pleasure of those that attend.

Newark and Olive Branch lodge of Odd Fellows have one of the best teams in the state, and visitors who witness the work say that it is nearly perfect. It is a mistake to suppose that it is an easy matter to confer the degrees. Unless there is proper knowledge of a correct delivery of the charges and an intelligent rendition, the work falls flat, and is of little service in creating an impression or making an active member of the candidate.

The order is the guardian of Odd Fellows' orphaned children, as well as of the widowed, and is an organization calculated to do much good.

There are no degrees in this or any other order more beautiful or impressive than those of the Encampment branch.

Don't wait for the other fellow to bring in a name. Bring it in yourself.

MODERN WOODMEN.

Cedar Camp held a very interesting meeting last Wednesday evening, one candidate being led through the mysteries of the order and several applicants being ballotted upon and elected to membership. The camp decided to run their excursion to Sandusky and the lakes on Thursday September 12. It is expected that five hundred or more people will go on this excursion. The camp has chartered the beautiful steamer Arrow which plies between Sandusky, Kelly's Island, Middle Bass and Put-in-Bay. A rate of $1.25 to Sandusky and return has been secured. Those desiring to take the lake trip to Put-in-Bay can do so by paying 50 cents in addition to the $1.25. A committee of 20 of the Woodmen hustlers has been appointed in the interest of the excursion and no doubt it will be the largest excursion of the season. The tickets will be on sale by the committee and at C. S. Kerr's and Tabler & Williams' stores.

S. A. W. V.

At the regular meeting of Licking Camp 92, S. A. W. V., held on Thursday evening one recruit was mustered into the camp.

HOME GUARDS OF AMERICA.

OLD SOLDIERS.

A. O. U. W.

Golden Rod Lodge No. 400 at its regular meeting last Monday evening initiated 24 candidates and then took a recess until last Thursday evening, when four more were taken in, which places Golden Rod at the top and makes it the largest lodge in Ohio.

MASONIC.

At a special meeting of Warren Chapter No. 6 R. A. M., held on last Monday evening there was a good attendance and the Mark Master degree was conferred on four candidates. There will be no more meetings now before the regular September meeting.

At a special meeting of Acme lodge No. 554 F. & A. M. held on last Thursday evening, the M. M. degree was conferred on two candidates.

The language of Masonry is known all over the world. No matter what the tongue of the nation may be, its peculiar dialect is recognized.

The subject of Free Masonry affords ample scope for the highest order of minds and presents a field of usefulness for the promulgation of its beautiful tenets rarely exceeded in any community.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Caught in the Web," the now celebrated play which will be presented at the Auditorium next Monday night, Aug. 26, is novel in construction and original in theme. It treats of detective life in a natural manner. There is no straining for effect, but constant action from the rising of the curtain on the first act to the end of the play. Surprises follow each other in rapid succession, but they are all natural and logical. The play is strictly dramatic and the humor is of high order. No play of recent years has been sent on the road with such a heavy scenic equipment. Not a piece of the house scenery is used by the company, and in addition it carries the furniture, carpets, draperies, electric lights and other paraphernalia used in the production. "Caught in the Web" is the one great play of the year. Curtain rises promptly at 8 o'clock.

A performance of superior excellence may be looked for next Thursday evening at the Auditorium for John W. Vogel's Big Minstrels, with all the novelties and varying specialties which this popular manager has found it possible to crowd into a performance of this kind, will be there.

Vogel has long been recognized as the king of minstrelsy, adding each succeeding year considerable strength and beauty to what has always in the past been accepted as a perfect presentation.

Arthur Rigby heads the happiness this season, his inimitable monologue always proving amusing, especially to the ladies, his aim having always been to please rather than offend a member of the fairer sex, this fact, perhaps, being responsible for his great popularity.

Chas. Gano, Burt and Frank Leighton, A. L. Tracy and Hugh J. Brown are other bidders for approval in the fun-making festival, while Thos. Merrick, Clarence Rummel, Percy Reed, John Moore, Earl Taylor and Grant Merkle form what is heralded as the strongest vocal party ever heard in minstrelsy.

The olio is a long one and of the unusual kind, unusual because of the novelties it is said to contain.

The O'Brien troupe of acrobats will contribute their thoroughly fine and never-to-be-forgotten acrobatic act; Roulette, pantomimic clown juggler; Leighton and Leighton, rag-time dancers, and Don Gordon, comedy trick cyclist, fill out the diversified bill which promises to be the best of the kind ever seen here. The curtain will rise at 8 o'clock promptly.

This will be the last night of the present strong bill at the Park Casino but Manager Lingafelter promises another good program for next week, beginning tomorrow.

Wm. A. Brady's production of the new musical snap shot by R. Melville Baker, entitled "Foxy Grandpa," which serves to star Mr. Joseph Hart and Miss Carrie DeMar, has from all accounts proved to be one of the greatest and most substantial musical comedy successes of the present season. The first week's business of this attraction at Atlantic City, N. J., was close to $7,800,000, while the second and closing week bids fair to out-ride that of the first. "Foxy Grandpa" seems to be literally "in the air."

The new comedy Martha Morton has written for Ada Rehan and in which she will be seen the coming season, will be called "The Fascinating Miss Ford."

Klaw & Erlanger's "Ben Hur" company, three hundred and fifty people, left New York for Chicago by special train. Ben Teal will rehearse the company at the Illinois Theatre till the opening date, Sept. 2d.

The new sequel to "The Innocent Maid" and "When Reuben Comes to Town," "The Wedding of the Reuben and the Maid," sung by the Rogers Brothers, Edith St. Clair and Jeanette Bageard at the first performance of "The Rogers Brothers in Washington" in Buffalo last Monday night, is even a greater hit than the others proved. It was encored fourteen times by actual count.

Louis Mann and Clara Lipman have arrived from Europe and will present their new Boer play, "The Red Kloof," although this title may not be retained, at the Savoy Theatre the latter part of September. Plot Principal: the old Boer, to be played by Louis Mann, is "stone deaf" in the first part of the play but regains his hearing through an operation performed by an English surgeon. He keeps secret the restoration of his sense of hearing. This incident has a very important bearing on the development of the plot.

Peter F. Diley and the company that will support him in Augustus Thomas' new comedy, "Champagne Charley," began rehearsals at the Madison Square Theatre last Monday, under the direction of the author. The new piece will be presented in three acts. The scene of the first act is the veranda of a summer hotel at Shelter Island; the second, the reception room in the Herald Square Theatre, New York; and the third, the restaurant of the Grand Union Hotel, 12:30 a. m. The characters are Charles Carey, a wine agent; Admiral Delavan, U. S. N., retired; Will A. McConnell, a theatrical manager; John Marko, a bandmaster; Stetson Hall, a merchant; Mr. Gibbons, a lawyer; Adolph Krieger and Charley Bostwick, musicians; "Sanday" Edwards, a small boy; Dorothy Williams, the Admiral's niece; Nellie Marko, Marko's wife; Fay Edwards, a widow; Mrs. Gibbons, a writer, and Letitia Kemble, a matinee girl. Christine McDonald will play Dorothy, the Admiral's niece. She and Mr. Diley as the wine agent will carry both comedy and sentimental interest.

Their Secret Is Out.

All Ladleville, Ky., was curious to learn the cause of the vast improvement in the health of Mrs. S. P. Whitaker, who had for a long time, endured untold suffering from a chronic bronchial trouble. "It's all due to Dr. King's New Discovery," writes her husband. "It completely cured her and also cured our little grand-daughter of a severe attack of Whooping Cough." It positively cures coughs, colds, la grippe, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Hall's drug store.

Natural Gas.

To the People of Newark:—Solicitors are going over the city securing or attempting to secure contracts for natural gas to be delivered in this city by a new gas company on or before January first next. We beg to ask the people of Newark to stop to consider the proposition for a moment.

We ask the people before obligating themselves, to be thoroughly convinced that any new gas company has something to sell. In other words, we would ask the people to be sure that any gas company making contracts to furnish gas at a given time in the future has the gas in sufficient quantity to pipe to a city within that time and furnish the same to customers.

It would be well for a committee to visit the new gas field (so-called) and to ascertain from observation the amount of gas that the one well which has already been sunk, is producing.

It took the Newark Natural Gas and Fuel Company nearly four years, to extend their lines to the city of Newark, yet a new company proposes to do it by January 1.

The new company promises to have gas for delivery in this city by January 1, but before you sign a contract agreeing to buy said gas, be fully convinced that the new concern has gas and then ask yourself how you will heat your houses until it is piped into town.

LOST BOY

CAUSED MUCH UNEASINESS IN STONE FAMILY.

Five Year Old Child Went Five Miles Into Country But Returned Safe and Sound.

The people residing in the North End, in the vicinity of Maple avenue, were wrought up to a high pitch of excitement on Friday afternoon by the mysterious disappearance of a little boy. For some days past little Carl Stone, the five year old son of Mr. Carl Stone, foreman of the Swisher cigar factory in Columbus, has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Stone, at their home on Maple avenue. Shortly after dinner on Friday Mrs. Stone missed the little fellow, and a search of the premises failed to throw any light on his whereabouts. The police were then notified and nearly the entire population of the North End turned out to hunt for the missing child. The grandmother, Mrs. Stone, was almost prostrated over the disappearance of the child and was afraid that he had wandered down to the creek and drowned. Although a systematic search was made of all that portion of the city, nothing was heard of the little fellow until nearly dark when some larger boys brought him home. They had taken him out into the country for a distance of nearly five miles, and neglected to inform any of the family of their going. Mrs. Stone was greatly rejoiced over the return of her little grandchild.

KIBLER DISCUSSES OHIO CITY LAWS.

A dispatch from Jamestown, N. Y., says:

At the meeting of the League of American Municipalities Edward Kibler, of Newark, O., member of the Ohio Municipal Code Commission, discussed special legislation for cities, together with the merit system in appointments. He said:

"Local self government besets Ohio cities. Although the Ohio Constitution requires that the organization of all cities and villages shall be by general laws, this provision has long been contemptuously ignored; classification has run mad; special legislation controls our cities as much as though the Ohio constitution contained the brutal provision—the cities of the State shall be run as a part of the dominant political machine."

BAND STAND

Collapsed During Friday Evening's Concert, But Luckily Nobody Was Badly Injured.

The stand on which the Buckeye Band gave its regular Friday night concert, collapsed suddenly Friday night, in front of Gleichauf's furniture store. Several small boys were playing underneath at the time, but luckily none were seriously hurt. A little boy named Charley Chester had his leg and back slightly injured.

INSTITUTE

FOR THE YEAR 1901 IS NOW A THING OF THE PAST.

Resolutions Adopted at the Closing Session—Lecture by Prof. Simkins and Miss Logan.

The Licking county Teachers' Institute closed a successful week's session Friday afternoon. The election of officers was published in Friday's Advocate.

Prof. Simkins took the Fish Worm for his theme Friday afternoon. It is nocturnal in its habits, cannot live in water and is really but a long straight double tube. It has sides, feet (sometimes 100 or 200) a craw and gizzard, muscles, a mouth but no teeth, no eyes but is sensitive to light; its rings contract and expand forcing the blood through the body; it has a liver; it has chains of ganglia; the red plasma carries the air; it breathes all over its body; it originally lived in the ocean and then in the swamps, and now keeps itself wet constantly; it has no ears but is so sensitive that it can feel sound; it eats celery, cabbage, betts, etc.; it eats its way through the earth; it has been farming for 18,000,000 years and is reclaiming the earth for man.

Miss Logan's theme for the afternoon was the Ideal School. It is needless to speak of the ideal teacher for of course you all are that. The ideal course of study is an equally needless subject to discuss, because the teacher is not always consulted as to the making of the course of study; but it is the ideal child that I would like to discuss with you this afternoon. Have you ideal children? No, I think not. Kate Douglass Wiggin has said she never could see why Max O'Rell should wish if he were to be born over again to be an American woman. The American woman is so occupied with her own emancipation, the American child's education, and the American man's reformation that she has no time for anything else. How necessary it is for the teacher to know the children. They come from so many different kinds of homes and need so much individual study to discover their weak points and their needs. When so much time is bestowed by florists upon little bulbs that they are anxious to have bloom, should we be discouraged when these tender little plants refuse to unfold to our unskillful touch? We are not all born teachers, but we ought to be the best made teachers we can. Let us have all the mother-love possible when we come to these little ones that have within their lives such wonderful possibilities.

Dr. Baer took up the subject of The Flag. Teach the pupils to love the flag. Use it to decorate your school room. Teach them the meaning of the flag—the lessons of the colors Red, that stands for bravery, white for purity and blue for loyalty. The history of the flag is a very interesting one. A beautiful exercise is to teach the children to salute the flag. For the little ones the words often used are: "I pledge my head and my hand to God and my country; one country, one language, one flag." Teach your pupils to sing the patriotic songs, to commit them to memory; teach them also patriotic quotations.

The committee on resolutions then presented the following report:

Newark, Ohio, Aug. 23, 1901.

Be it resolved:

First, That inasmuch as the quarterly meetings of the past have been profitable and inspiring to the teachers of the county, it is to be regretted that a larger number has not enrolled and made it possible to continue these meetings with as good or better talent than heretofore.

Second, That while the attendance has not been as large as usual, yet the instruction has been practical and helpful and those in regular attendance have been greatly benefited.

Third, That the four quarterly meetings be continued and that the committee consider the advisability of holding these meetings in different parts of the county.

Fourth, That the thanks of this institute be extended to the officers for securing the services of J. D. Simkins, a native of Licking county, Dr. Baer of Harrisburg, and Miss Anna Logan of Cincinnati, as the instructors of this institute; also to the Cross Sisters for the excellent music, and to Rev. J. W. Yantis for conducting the devotional exercises.

Fifth, That many of our teachers were pleased to listen to Dr. Burns, who is so closely connected with the Reading Circle work.

Sixth, That the teachers of Licking county appreciate the kindness of the Board of Education in granting them the use of the Newark High school building.

HAPPENINGS IN ALL PARTS OF OHIO.

All Sorts of Buckeye News Items Boiled So that Only Real Facts Remain.

Lancaster—Trafford Stevenson, 29, waded out of a second story bedroom window and his fall to the ground awakened the family. He was picked up unconscious and may die. One year ago he fell from the same window in his sleep and never recovered from the injuries sustained.

Delaware—Death at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. M. R. Ballinger, of this city claimed the twin sons, Paul and Earl within two hours. A remarkable feature in the birth of the twins was the fact that one was born in one century and one in another. Paul first took on existence December 31, 1900, a few minutes after 10 o'clock at night, while Earl first saw the light January 1, 1901, a few minutes before 1 o'clock in the morning.

Findlay—Thieves who robbed the house of Henry Ballmer overlooked $200 which was hidden. The family spoke openly of this and the men went back, but the money had been put in the bank.

Warren—At De Forest Wm. Simpson, a Pan Handle freight brakeman, whose home is at Franklin, Pa., was killed by a train. Engineer Parker and Brakeman Planton were injured.

Bradford—When asked for an injunction to prevent the majority faction from holding services in the Bloomer German Lutheran church, Judge Jones refused it saying the majority should rule.

Springfield—Bert Beatty, an employee of the Detroit Southern Car Shop, attempted to jump on a train this evening and was killed. He lived at 60 Summer street, and was married.

ANGRY AT LI

Chinese Want Him Punished For His Friendliness to Foreigners.

Peking, Aug. 24.—On account of the ill will of the Chinese people, Li Hung Chang, after having conducted all the active negotiations for peace, retired into the background, leaving to Prince Ching the responsibility of consummating the work. Earl Li finds himself in the same precarious position that he occupied at the close of the negotiations following the war with Japan. The native press is unanimous in violently denouncing him for what is called his surrender to the foreigners, and a number of officials have petitioned the emperor to punish him for betraying his country.

The procrastination of the Chinese peace plenipotentiaries in signing the protocol is causing some uneasiness in the foreign community here, although the ministers of the powers do not think that the Chinese intend to defy the powers by ultimately refusing to sign. Indeed, they believe China is anxious to wind up the negotiations speedily.

Decrees rectifying the punishments and suspending the examinations will be issued before the Chinese signatures are affixed.

Prince Ching, at the request of the empress dowager, telegraphed to her verbatim the restrictions as to the importation of arms.

Roosevelt's Children III.
New York, Aug. 24.—Vice President Roosevelt's youngest child, Quentin, aged 4 years, is in Roosevelt hospital, as well as his sister Alice. The boy was operated upon and it is expected he will be well in a reasonable length of time. Alice, the vice president's eldest child, was operated upon a week ago. She had an abscess of the jaw and the operation she underwent was very successful. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt secured a private apartment in the hospital for themselves so they could watch the progress of their daughter, and they will continue to keep the room while their boy is ill.

POOLROOM RAID

Sheriff Pursued Proprietors Across the Corporation Line.
Cincinnati, Aug. 24.—The troubles of the poolrooms across the river were renewed Friday when Sheriff Miller of Campbell county raided and arrested the proprietors of the room which was opened Wednesday at Huber's Garden, just outside of the corporate line of Newport, Ky. The rooms closed out in Covington Tuesday owing to the opposition of the local courts and it was expected that they could operate in their new location unmolested. Affidavits were made charging the proprietors and attaches with keeping a disorderly house. They were bound over to the grand jury and released on $500 bail.

The mob called at the house of Jailer Jackson Clayton but his wife refused them the keys to the jail. They then went to the jail and began to batter the doors, when Officer Brant, who was scolded in a coal shed nearby, opened fire upon them. The mob returned the fire but no one was hit. The mob dispersed.

New York, Aug. 24.—The first test of a new system of electric traction is reported as having surpassed the expectations of the installing engineers. A correspondent in Italy, where the installation has just been completed, says a speed of 45 miles an hour was secured without any serious jarring and that trains of cars were easily transported at this speed even on decided grades. The dynamo worked perfectly at 21,000 volts on a line 67 miles in length. This new method of electric traction is what is known as the high tension polyphase system, and the results of these tests have been awaited with much interest by electric railway interests.

THE LADY OF LYNN

By SIR WALTER BESANT

Copyright, 1900, by Sir Walter Besant

By the light of the candle and the fire I could perceive that the condition of the unhappy poet was miserable indeed. Never was there a more wretched den of a galleet. The plaster had fallen from the walls, the window was mostly stuffed with rags in place of glass—in a word, everything betokened the greatest extremity of poverty. As for the man himself, he had neither coat, waistcoat nor shoes. He sat on the bed half dressed, but the rest of his wardrobe had been pawned or sold. There were no books, there were no papers, there was nothing to show his calling, and there was no sign of food.

At the sight of my basket and its contents the man fell to. With just such a rage have I seen a sailor picked up at sea from an open boat fall upon food and devour it. Nor did Sam finish till he had devoured the whole of the cold beef and bread, a goodly ration, and swallowed the whole of the bottle of wine, a generous allowance. Then he breathed a sigh of satisfaction and put on the thick coat which I had bought for him.

"Well," I said, "can we now talk?"

"Jack, you have saved my life. But I shall be hungry again tomorrow. Lend me a little money."

"I will lend you a guinea or two. But tell me first how you came here. I thought you were in the confidence of a certain noble lord."

"He is a villain, Jack. He is the greatest villain unbug. Oh, hanging is too good for him! After all I did for him! The lying villain!"

"Tell me more. What were you to get for it?"

"It was I who invented an excuse for taking my lord and his friends to Lynn."

"Yes, I understand. You invented the spa. The water in the well?"

"The water is very good water. It could do no harm. I wrote to the doctor. I invented the analysis, applying it from another. I told him about the discovery and the things said by the newspapers. There was no discovery. Nobody had heard of the water. No physician sent any of his patients there. The only visitors from London were my lord and his friends."

"They were all his friends, then?"

"All his reverence is in the pay of Beelzebub, I believe. The colonel is a bully and a gamester. Sir Harry is a well known decoy. Lady Anastasia shares her bank with Lord Fyningdale. They were a nest of sharpers and villains, and their business and mine was to spread abroad reports of the shining virtues of his lordship."

"All this, or part of it, we found out or guessed. The vicar publicly denounced you all at his assembly. But what were you to get by it for yourself?"

"I was to have an appointment under government of £200 a year at least."

"Well?"

"I was to have it directly after the marriage. That was the promise. I have it in writing."

"And you have not got it?"

"No, and I shall not get it. When I claimed it, his lordship asked me to read the promise. I showed it to him. I had kept it carefully in my pocketbook. On the marriage of Lord Fyningdale with Miss Molly. What do you think he said? Oh, villain, villain!"

"What did he say?"

"He said: 'Hold there, my friend! On the marriage.' Very well, I say that I am not married to that lady. Very oddly, the lady swears that she is not married to me. Now, when that lady acknowledged the marriage I will fulfill my promise. That is fair, is it not?"

"Then I lost my head and forgot his rank and my position, and the next moment I was knocked into the street by his lackeys without salary, without anything. Oh, villain, villain!"

"It seemed as if there was some opening, of what nature I know not. However, I spoke seriously to Sam. I pointed out to him in introducing a broken gamester, a profligate, a man of no honor or principle, the companion of profligates and gamesters, to the simple folk of Lynn, who were ready to believe anything, he had himself been guilty of an act more villainous even than the breaking of this contract. I gave him, however, a guinea for present necessities, and I promised him 5 guineas more if he would write a history of the whole business so far as he was concerned. And I undertook to leave this money with my cousin, the looker, to be paid over to him on receiving the manuscript."

"And, this business arranged, I had nothing more to do with London. I had been, however, as you shall presently learn, more successful than I myself understood. For I had learned by actual presence the daily life and conversation of this noble lord, and I had laid the foundation for a proof of the conspiracy to disguise his true character, and what was much more important, I had unwittingly fired the mind of the mysterious woman herself with resentment and jealousy."

"We were now, indeed, although we knew it not, very near to the end of these troubles."

"I returned with the satisfaction of bringing with me the confession of the conspiracy which we had long known. Still it is one thing to know of a conspiracy and quite another thing to have a plain confession by one of the chief conspirators. You may imagine that the poet was not long in writing out a full and complete confession and in claiming the 5 guineas of my cousin, who took the liberty of reading the document and of witnessing his signature before he gave up the money."

One after the other the victims of Lord Fyningdale's perfidy and of their own wickedness came over, so to speak, to the other side, impelled by rage and the desire for revenge, and made confession. The first was our old friend Sam; the second was Colonel Lanyon. Like the poet, he also fell upon evil days. But, less lucky than Sam, he had lost his liberty and was now a prisoner for debt in the King's Bench prison.

The voice of the third confederate followed. It was a voice from the tomb. Sir Henry Malyns, the poor old beau who had lived for 80 years in the world of fashion, who had spent his patrimony and had in the end been reduced to the miserable work of a decoy, as you have heard, was at last summoned to render an account of his life. He repented of his degradation as the secret servant of Lord Fyningdale; he repented of his share in the deception which led to the promise, if not the performance, of marriage between his patron and Miss Molly. And he dictated to some one who attended him in his last moments a brief note, which was accepted in the spirit of forgiveness which he desired.

Next came the Rev. Benjamin Puden. A. M., in a truly impudent letter to Captain Crowle, which the captain read to us all. The reverend gentleman exposed the whole scheme.

CHAPTER XIX.

FREE.

Y this time a whole year had passed since the pretended marriage and our submission. Never was a magnificent property so destroyed and diminished in so short a time. Farms, lands, houses, were sold for what they would fetch—at half their value, a quarter of their value. All the money out at mortgage had been called in; all the money received at the quay and the counting house had been sent to his lordship's attorneys. In one short twelvemonth the destruction had been such that in June there was actually nothing left—nothing out of that princely fortune except the fleet of ships and the general business.

It was on the 15th of June—I remember the date well and shall always remember it. The Lady of Lynn had arrived two days before and we were moored off the quay. At 2 o'clock or thereabout one of the stable boys from the house came aboard bringing a message for me. A lady lodging at the Crown desired to see me immediately. The lady had arrived in the evening in a post chaise, having with her a maid. She had given no name, but in the morning had asked if my ship was in port, and, on learning that it was, she desired that a boy from the stables might carry this message to me.

I landed at our own quay. I say our own, but it was no longer ours—that is, Molly's quay. At the door of the counting house stood the manager in conversation with the captain of one of our ships. He beckoned me to speak with him. When he had finished his discourse with the captain, he turned to me.

"Mr. Pentecroste," he said, "the worst has now begun. Tell Captain Crowle, I should choke if I had to tell him. Alas, poor man! It seems as if the work of his life was ruined and destroyed." So saying, he handed me a letter to read. It was from my lord's attorneys, Messrs. Bissie & Son. "I suppose," said the manager, "that they are really acting for his lordship. Their power of attorney cannot be denied, can it? Mr. Redman, our attorney, says that there is nothing for it but obedience."

The letter was short:

"We have noted your information conveyed in the last schedule. You are now instructed to proceed with the sale of one of the ships. Let her be sold as she stands on arriving in port with so much of the cargo as belongs to your house. My lord is urgently pressed for money and begs that there may be no delay. Meantime send a draft by postal channel for money in hand. Your obedient servant, Bissie & Son, Attorneys."

"A draft for money in hand," cried the manager. "There are no moneys in hand! And I have to sell without delay a tall ship, cargo and all as she stands. Without delay! Who is to buy that ship—without delay?"

I returned him the letter and shook my head. My ship perhaps was the one to be sold. She was the latest arrival. She was filled with wine. The cargo belonged altogether to the house. So I should be turned adrift when just within bail, so to speak, of becoming a captain. I could say nothing in consolation or in hope. I walked away, my heart as heavy as lead. Never before had I felt the true meaning of this ruin and waste. All around me the noble edifice built by Molly's grandfather and her father and continued by her guardian had been pulled down bit by bit.

But one felt the loss of a farm or a house very little. It was not until the ships, too, were threatened that the full enormity of the thing, the incredible wickedness of the conspirators, was borne in upon my mind. It threatened to ruin me, you see, as well as Molly. Therefore I walked across the market place to the Crown inn more gloomy in my mind than I can describe. Hitherto, somehow, a ship seemed safe. No one would interfere with a ship. Like Lord Fyningdale himself, I was ready to ask whether a ship could be bought and sold—that is to say, I knew that she was often bought and sold, but I never thought that any of Molly's ships—any other ships as much as you please, but not Molly's ships—could be brought to the hammer.

The lady sent word that she would receive me. Imagine my surprise. She was none other than the Lady Anastasia. She had greatly changed in six months. I had seen her last, you remember, in January, when I met her in the park. She was then finely dressed, a handsome woman, with a winning manner and a smiling face. Thus she was when I met her. When I left her, she was a handsome woman married with a consuming wrath.

Now I should hardly have known her. She was plainly attired, without patches or paint, wearing a gray silk dress. But the chief change was not in her dress, but in her face. She was pale, and her cheeks were haggard. She looked like a woman who had recently suffered a severe illness and was, indeed, not yet fully recovered.

"Jack," she advanced, giving me her hand with her old graciousness—"you are very good to come when I call. It is the last time that you will obey any call from me."

"Why the last time, madam?"

"Because, Jack, I am now going to make thee my bitter enemy—yes, my enemy for life." She tried to smile, but her eyes grew humid. "I can never be regarded henceforth as anything else. You will despise me; you will curse me. Yet I must needs speak."

"Madam, I protest I know not what you mean."

"And I, Jack, I protest I know not how to begin. Do you remember last January, when we talked together? Let me begin there—yes, it will be best to begin there. I do not think I could begin at the other end. It would be like a bath of ice cold water in January."

"I remember our conversation, madam."

"You told me—that was it you told me? Something about a certain box or case of jewels?"

"Molly's jewels. Yes, I told you how his lordship seized upon them at the first when he claimed control over Molly's fortune."

"You told me that. It was in January. He had seized upon them six months before. The thing surprised me. He had always told me that he could not get those jewels, and, Jack, you see, they were my own."

"Yours, madam? But they were Molly's."

"Not at all. Molly after her marriage had nothing. All became my lord's property. The jewels were mine, Jack, mine by promise and compact."

I understood nothing.

"I have seen in France the women kneeling at the boxes where they confess to the priest. Jack, will you be my priest? I can confess to you what I could never confess to Molly, though I have wronged her. Jack, oh, my priest! Here she fell on her knees and clasped her hands. 'No, no,' she cried. 'I will not rise—on my knees, on my knees, not to ask your pardon, but for the shame and the disgrace and the villainy!'"

"Madam, I pray—I entreat."

I took her by both hands. I half lifted her and half assisted her. She sank into an armchair, sobbing and crying, and covered her face with her hands. She was not playing acting. No, it was real sorrow, true shame. Oh, there was revenge as well. No doubt there was revenge. If she had been wicked, she had also been wronged. Presently she recovered a little. Then she sat up and began to talk.

"I am the most miserable woman in the world, and I deserve my misery. Jack, when you go back to your ship fall on your knees and thank God that you are poor and that Molly has been robbed of her fortune and is also poor. Oh, to be born rich—believe me, it is a thing most terrible. It makes men like Lord Fyningdale, who have nothing to do but to follow pleasure—such pleasure! Ah, merciful heaven, such pleasure! And it makes women, Jack, like me. We too, follow pleasure like the men. We become gamblers. There is no pleasure for me like the pleasure of gambling. We fall in love for the pleasure and whim of it till we are slaves to men who treat us worse than they treat their dogs, worse than they treat their lackeys. Then we forget honor and honesty; then we throw away reputation and good name. We accept recklessly shame and dishonor. NEW PASTOR

FOR FOURTH STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST.

The Rev. Henry Newton Miller will be the Successor to the Rev. Minor Lee Bates.

The Fourth Street Church of Christ on Sunday will extend an official call to the Rev. Henry Newton Miller to become pastor of the church and it is authoritatively announced that Mr.
Miller will accept the call.

Mr. Miller last week visited Newark and preached at the Fourth Street Church of Christ where he made a very favorable impression on all of his hearers. The church is unanimous in asking Mr. Miller to be the succesor of the Rev. Minor Lee Bates who on September 2 will leave to accept his new charge at Warren, O.

Mr. Miller is an unmarried man, about 32 years of age. In appearance and in manner he reminds one very forcibly of the present pastor of the church, Mr. Bates. Mr. Miller is a graduate of Bethany, W. Va., college, and for some time he has been occupying the chair of English in the Bethany college faculty at the same time supplying the pulpit of a church at Wellsburg, Va. Before teaching at Bethany, Mr. Miller preached at Wells-ville, O., and also at Long Pine, Penn.
At the present time he is located near Amity, Pa. Mr. Miller is expected to come to Newark within a few days.

friends at his new place.

Hall Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Let every member be present.

AN UNEQUALED RECORD

There is a rapidly increasing volume of Newark evidence rolling up for the great medicine Dr. A. W.
Chase's Nerve Pills.

It would seem that hardly anyone can take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills without receiving marked benefit. The wonderful action of this medicine in putting people on their feet who are in a weak run down condition is the talk of every place they are known. It is only a short time since they first came to Newark, yet today they are more in evidence for merit with Newark people than all other medicines combined.

Mr. J. O. Harter of No. 182 German street, Newark, Ohio, says: "I was generally run down, felt nervous, slept poorly, back was weak and felt generally below the right mark. I was told to try Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and got some at C. T. Bricker's City Drug store, and they certainly sued me. I regained health, strength and energy, slept well and back all right. I am glad to recommend the Nerve Pills."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or
